

October 1, 2015

NOAA Cloud Services

JHC Technology, Inc. (JHC), a cloud services and solutions firm, has been selected as the Prime Contractor by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) to provide guidance and expertise as NOAA seeks to begin implementing cloud-first policies. As an AWS Advanced Consulting Partner and AWS Government Partner and Reseller, JHC provides significant experience across all AWS Regions for both Federal Government and Commercial clients. Specifically, NOAA's focus is on agency-level implementation requirements and sought a vendor with deep Federal Government experience to help provide its on-demand, self-service Infrastructure as a Service environment to support application development and migration requirements. JHC's role will be to set the foundation for cloud architecture, development, and deployment, and work closely with NOAA personnel to establish public service delivery for development and testing that streamlines the implementation and support of NOAA websites, virtual machines, and applications moving to the public cloud.

This award recognizes the Federal Government's confidence in the capability of JHC to provide expert knowledge in establishing, integrating, and implementing cutting-edge AWS solutions.

For more information, please contact:

Matt Jordan

Vice President, Corporate Strategy & Development

mjordan@jhctechnology.com

Twitter: @matt_jhc

About JHC Technology, Inc.

JHC Technology is a Service Disabled, Veteran-Owned Small Business headquartered outside Washington, DC. JHC has been a leader in Amazon Web Services cloud solutions since 2010, supporting the Federal Government, Local Government, Non-Profits, and the Private Sector, as well as a Fortune 50 company. We provide intelligent engineering and development services focused on disruptive technologies with core capabilities in cloud, virtualization, mobility, and collaboration. We deliver high performing subject matter experts to support clients in multiple industries, including defense, international trade, financial services, grant administration, science, and retail. JHC is an AWS Advanced Consulting Partner, Government Partner, and Government and Channel Reseller. For more information, visit www.jhctechnology.com.